WITHDRAWAL OF TROOPS ORDERED BY BEN-GURION

Brennan OK Is Given

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today unanimously approved President Eisenhower's nomination of William Joseph Brennan Jr. to be a Supreme Court justice.

Eleven of the 15 committee members were present for the vote, which sent the nomination to the Senate floor for action by the Senate itself.

Brennan, a Democrat, is a former justice on the New Jersey State Supreme Court. He was appointed by Mr. Eisenhower to succeed Justice Sherman Minton who has retired from the U.S. high court.

Hearings on the Brennan nomination featured charges by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis) that Brennan conducted a "guerrilla" campaign against congressional investigations of Communism while at the same time making speeches against Communism.

Critical of Methods

At the hearings Brennan said he believes the nation should do all in its power to rid itself of the Communist threat, but that the campaign should not be damaged by using ineffective methods.

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee, an arm of the Judiciary Committee, has been among the active congressional committees investigating subversion. There were no votes against Brennan, however.

As it approved the Brennan nomination, the committee also ordered hearings on another Supreme Court appointment. Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss) announced that the group will meet two weeks from today to consider Mr. Eisenhower's nomination of Charles E. Whittaker.

Whittaker is a federal appeals court judge in the eighth circuit and lives in Kansas City, Mo. He had previously been appointed a federal district court judge and then promoted to the appeals bench by Mr. Eisenhower.

He was chosen to succeed retiring Justice Stanley F. Reed.

Voting for the Brennan nomination were Sens. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), John L. McClellan (D-Ark), Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-

Party Is 'Dud' At Smoke Shop Here Yesterday

Everyone was welcome to a "big party" at the Fifth Avenue Smoke Shop at 475 Schoonmaker avenue yesterday afternoon and evening.

The "big party" offered lunch, entertainment, door prizes and cash prizes — all for free.

The Smoke Shop is the place State Police raided in January and caught 20 men with their aces showing.

In any event, yesterday's "social" event was said to have been a dud.

The customary "sucker" didn't go for the bait.

The fast-buck boys at the shop had a tough time getting enough customers for an interesting card game or dice.

It was learned that the "boys" staged the party to lure back customers who have been frequenting gaming spots in Donora and Charleroi.

Seems the "boys" here can't make a fast buck anymore.

Service Station Fire in Rostraver

Belle Vernon firemen reported a temporary plaster wall was burned out in a Rostraver Township service station undergoing repairs yesterday morning.

Station owner Martin Sivic, of Belle Vernon, called fireman after an oil stove ignited.

DENIES PAYOFF — Portland pinball operator Stanley Terry, testifying before a Senate committee, denies that he made a $10,000 payoff to west coast teamsters boss Frank Brewster to get a share of the alleged teamster-monopolized pinball racket.

Fluoridation to Be Discussed Here Tomorrow

The case for fluoridation of our community water supply will be discussed at a public meeting tomorrow night at the Monessen High School auditorium.

Sponsored by the Monessen Junior Women's Club, the program will get underway promptly at 8 p. m.

Many civic leaders, business men, veterans' groups, fraternal and parent-teacher groups, church and social groups, medical and dental personnel and labor groups have been invited.

The Junior Women's Club is hoping to organize a "Citizens' Committee" to see if there is a public desire to obtain fluoridation.

Fluoridation is a process by which the chemical fluorine is added to the water supply for the purpose of controlling tooth decay.

It can only be used if a majority of the citizens in the communities of Monessen, Charleroi and Donora request it. The three communities get water from the same source, the Authority of the Borough of Charleroi.

Dr. Milton E. Nicholson, chairman of the Council of Dental Health of the Pennsylvania Dental Society and Odontological Society of Western Pennsylvania will speak at the meeting.

Slight Damage in Weekend Accident

Slight damage resulted when two cars collided near Sixth street and Parkway over the weekend, Monessen police reported today.

Drivers involved were Edward Fayak, of 611 Division street, and Harry Grogan, of 973 Grant street, both of Monessen.

Rackets Probe to Reopen

WASHINGTON (UP) — Dave Beck, president of the powerful Teamsters Union, has failed thus far to hand over his personal financial records to the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee.

This was disclosed today by Robert F. Kennedy, committee counsel, as the committee prepared to resume hearings Tuesday on charges Teamster officials were linked with vice, gambling and political influence on the West Coast.

Meanwhile the No. 2 man in the Teamsters Union, James R. Hoffa, said in Detroit the Senate hearings "have amounted to nothing so far." He said he has seen nothing in the hearings to "implicate" Beck or Frank W. Brewster, a Teamster vice president accused of links with racketeers and vice in tesumony last week.

"All I have seen is that some unreliable witnesses have testified they heard somebody tell somebody, but there's no real evidence to back anything they've said," said Hoffa, himself a Teamster vice president.

Vote of Confidence

Western Teamster officials gave Brewster a vote of confidence Saturday.

Committee members predicted over the weekend their sensation-packed inquiry will lead to legislation to correct alleged union abuses.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-SD), a member, said, "We have a dozen cases as bad" as the allegations concerning the West Coast Teamsters.

Beck, president of the nation's biggest union, was asked several days ago by committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) to turn over his "personal financial records" for the past seven years.

Beck, now in Europe, said he would have "no objection" to furnishing his records to the committee. However, Kennedy said today no representative of Beck has yet contacted the committee. The union chief is due back from Europe later this month and is scheduled to appear in person before the committee at a date not yet announced.

District Youth Hit by Auto

Seven-year-old Jimmy Lenhart, of R. D. 1, Charleroi, is in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital suffering from injuries received about 1:45 p. m. Saturday when struck by an auto on Route 88 about one mile north of Donora, State Police reported today.

He suffered abrasions of the head and a possible concussion. His condition is good.

Police identified the driver as Clyde Parsons, 30, of Eighth street extension, Donora.

Police said the boy darted across the highway and into the path of the machine.

AFTER ISRAEL O.K.'d WITHDRAWAL — Nasrollah Entezam (left) of Iran confers with Andrew Cordier (center), chief aide to Dag Hammarskjold (right), U. N. Secretary-General. The latter seems to be expressing satisfaction with the pledge of Israel to withdraw her troops from the Gaza Strip and the Gulf of Aqaba. Below, part of the Israeli delegation to the United Nations is shown in a huddle after Foreign Minister Golda Meir had delivered her historic message to the U. N. General Assembly in New York that Israel was withdrawing her forces from Gaza-Aqaba areas.

Israeli Premier Fights Off Opposition; To Face Parliament Tomorrow

By UNITED PRESS

Premier David Ben-Gurion today ordered Israeli forces to withdraw from the Gaza Strip and Gulf of Aqaba areas "as an act of faith" in the United Nations.

The order was transmitted to Maj. Gen. Moshe Davan, Israeli army chief of staff, who met with Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, commander of the United Nations Emergency Force (UNEF), to complete plans for the withdrawal.

Burns was on his way from El Arish, UNEF's Gaza jump - off base, to UNEF headquarters in the Suez Canal Zone when Dayan set a message requesting a meeting. Burns flew back to El Arish and then took another plane to Lydda Airport at Tel Aviv. He arrived at 5 p.m. (10 a.m. EST) and met with Dayan to begin charting the actual takeover.

Three Reasons

A high Israeli source in Jerusalem gave three principal reasons for Ben-Gurion's postponement of the showdown vote:

1. He was "very tired." He was up all night discussing the domestic crisis with leaders of his Mapai Labor Party and conferring with Ambassador Abba Eban in Washington.

2. The coalition negotiations — with several ministers threatening to resign — are "very tough." Further rebellion in the cabinet could cause the cabinet to fall at a critical time.

3. He has asked Eban for further clarification of the future of the Gaza Strip, particularly its future economic link with Israel.

The spokesman said the Knesset now would meet at 3 p.m. Tuesday (8 a. m. EST Tuesday.

Today's announcement followed a hectic week end during which Ben-Gurion fought off opposition at home and sought further clarification of U.S. views from Israeli representatives in Washington and New York.

Official sources said the Israeli cabinet's decision was based on a message from President Eisenhower to Ben-Gurion early Sunday.

In parliament, Ben-Gurion faces a motion of no-confidence introduced by the Herut opposition party. In effect, Ben-Gurion has gone against a probable majority of Israeli public opinion to withdraw from the disputed areas. If he does not survive the parliamentary vote, he will not be able to enforce the withdrawal decision. He was expected to win it, however.

Other Developments

Elsewhere, the situation was this:

—The nine - nation Arab League in Cairo informed the United States it opposed United Nations administration of the Gaza Strip and enforcement of freedom of navigation in the Gulf of Aqaba. Both are key assumptions in Israel's decision to withdraw.

—The independent Egyptian newspaper Al Akhbar predicted in Cairo that Israel would be forced

Inquiry into Pardons Board Continues Today

HARRISBURG (UP)—A special legislative committee was scheduled to call a Delaware County prosecutor to testify today in the investigation of the state Pardons Board.

The joint Senate-House committee was to hear from J. Harold Hughes, assistant district attorney for Delaware County, in its attempt to determine whether political influence was responsible for clemency granted to Michael Caserta, convicted Philadelphia gambler, and five other persons several years ago.

Delaware County Judge Arthur P. Bretherick said last week he felt that political considerations were involved in the board's commutation of sentences of five Philadelphians convicted of destruction of public property in a labor dispute at Media in 1955.

The two-year sentences of Joseph McSorley, Joseph D'Antonia, Joseph J. Dendorfer, Charles Rainier and Pasquale DiMarco were reduced to four months by the board.

Rep. Edwin W Tompkins (R-Cameron), committee chairman, plans to wind up the Delaware County cases early this week and then begin an investigation of the commutations granted former Mayor Thomas W. Flatley of Erie and several others in the 1954 Erie bribe scandal.

'Stolen Car' not Stolen, Case of Mistaken Identity

A "stolen car" case turned out to be a case of mistaken identity, Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka stated today.

A Monessen motorists, Stephen Urchick, of 335 Shady avenue, had his 1949 Buick parked at 139 East Schoonmaker avenue Saturday and a Uniontown motorist, Thomas Rankin, had his 1949 Buick parked just a few feet away from Urchick's.

The cars were identical—even down to the keys.

Seems that when Rankin returned to what he thought was his car, he got into Urchick's car instead. He inserted the keys in the ignition, turned over the motor and went to his home in Uniontown.

It wasn't until he was notified by State Police at Uniontown this morning that he knew he had driven Urchick's car away.

Rankin exchanged cars today.

Monessen High Debating Team Reaps Honors

The Monessen High School debating team, directed by Carolyn Sedey, continues to reap honors.

Last weekend in a National Forensic League tourney at Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., the "darkhorse" Monessen team won five debates and lost two. The local orators competed against 22 schools from New York, New Jersey, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Karen Duda, a member of the squad, won a trophy for being the outstanding debater presenting the negative side of the question. The other local debaters, William Lear, Florine Komatz and Jean Buchar, won individual awards for their efforts.

Accompanying the debaters and Miss Sedey as a guest was Swinda Waldman, an exchange student from Austria. While in Washington, Miss Sedey accompanied Miss Waldman to the Austrian Embassy where she received an enthusiastic welcome from her countrymen. That evening the exchange student was a guest at a dance given by the embassy.

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A hearing will be held in U. S. District Court here Thursday on a petition seeking an injunction restraining enforcement of a Westmoreland County Court order banning the taking of news pictures in the county jail and in certain areas of the courthouse.

The injunction petition is the latest in a series of legal moves by the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and the Greensburg Tribune-Review Publishing Co. in an effort to void the no-photo rule.

Seven officials and employes of the two newspapers were convicted of contempt and fined for taking pictures of condemned slayer John Wesley Wable, the "Turnpike Phantom," in violation of the photo ban.

Their convictions were upheld by the state Supreme Court, although jail sentences were set aside. Last Monday, the U. S. Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal from the state verdict.

In the federal court case now pending, the newspapers challenge the constitutionality of the Westmoreland County Court's no-picture order.

GOP Planning 'Rein' On Deficit Spending

HARRISBURG (UP) — The Republican legislative leadership today proposed a "check rein" on deficit spending by heads of state departments and agencies.

Senate Majority Leader Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford) said the GOP will introduce bills making it a penal offense "for any administrator to obligate the state to a greater amount of public funds than was provided in his appropriation unless he receives specific approval from the official leadership of the General Assembly."

"Unless there is some real emergency or crisis," Mahany said in a statement, "there is no rhyme nor reason that the Legislature every two years, as regularly as clockwork, must appropriate increasingly larger deficiency appropriations to departments of the state government."

Mahany Critical

Mahany was particularly critical of administration bills in the House to provide almost $10,000,000 in deficiency oppropriations for public assistance and occupational disease benefits.

He said the Legislature was "being forced with a gun at its head" to approve the measures "because it is either a case of providing the requested funds or allow the programs to collapse."

Mahany said it was time to "call a halt to this kind of government spending...running up the bills and leaving it to the Legislature to find the money to pay them later."

Armed Bandit Gets $10,000 At Sharon Bank

SHARON, Pa. (UP)—An armed bandit disguised with a false mustache and dark glasses robbed the Hickory Twp. office of the McDowell National Bank of Sharon today of "upwards of $10,000."

The bandit walked into the branch office in Hickory Plaza, a shopping center two miles east of here, about 10:00 a. m. EST. He held nine customers and four employes at bay while a teller scooped the cash into a blue bag which the bandit carried.

Harrison Neihart, bank manager, said the bandit escaped with "upwards of $10,000 mostly from the night depository." Three small cash drawers were emptied and four money bags, Neihart said.

The getaway car, a black 1954 Buick sedan, was found here about a half hour after the robbery. The car was in a service station at Buhl Boulevard and State Street. The motor was running.

After menacing the customers and employes, the bandit vaulted a counter and forced teller Jack Logan to scoop the money into a bag.

Pennsylvania and Ohio state police were alerted and roadblocks were set up on the Ohio border about two miles west of here.

Police said the recovered car was stolen from New Castle. It was registered to William Couch, New Castle.

Dulles Undergoes 'Routine Checkup'

WASHINGTON (UP)— Secretary of State John Foster Dulles underwent a "routine checkup" at Walter Reed Army Hospital Saturday.

A State Department spokesman said Sunday in response to inquiries that Dulles went to the hospital Saturday morning. He gave no other details.

Dulles received the checkup four months to the day after his operation for intestinal cancer. The surgeons said then they had made a "complete removal" of the diseased tissue.

Allegheny Judge Is Brotherhood Speaker

"The spirit of Brotherhood is impressed on the mind and heart and runs in the blood and veins of our American youth," Allegheny County Judge Samuel A. Weiss, said here last night.

"It was clearly reflected in the character of our youngsters in every war the United States has fought to preserve freedom," Judge Weiss said.

Speaking before a sparse crowd at the Monessen Brotherhood meeting last night at the High School auditorium, he told of visiting the graves of G. I.'s in Italy as a member of Congress during the last war.

"I saw thousands of crosses of Christianity intermingled with the Stars of David and it reflected deep thought as I saw the names of boys of all nationalities, all races and creeds. These boys, although different in race and religion, fought together, bled together, died together so that we of today might live together."

The Judge was introduced by Rabbi Theodore Stamper, of Kneseth Israel Synagogue here.

Last night's program opened with the advance of colors by three Monessen service organizations, Allison-Lescanac Post 1190, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Joseph Ford Post 691, American Legion, and Thomas McKee Post 28, American Legion.

Councilman David R. Victoria extended the welcome address on behalf of the City.

Clergymen of all faiths participated. The Rev. John Govrusik, of St. John the Divine Russian Orthodox Church, led group singing of The Star Spangled Banner; the Rev. John Conway, of St. Leonard Roman Catholic Church, offered the invocation, and the Rev. Paul

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mildred Lois Mackey, who died 2 years ago today, March 4, 1955.
We lost a mother with a heart of gold,
Who was more to us than wealth untold.
In dreams we see her dear sweet face
And kiss her cold, cold brow.
And whisper as we love her then,
We love her memory now.
We think of her in silence,
No one can see us weep.
But still within our hearts,
Her memory we shall keep.
She bid no one last farewell,
She said goodby to none.
The heavely gate had opened,
And a lovely voice said come.
And with farewell unspoken,
She gently entered home.
Our Mother sleeps in silence,
We would not disturb her rest
We have lost but God has gained,
One of the best mothers The world contained.
Sadly missed by Husband, Children and Grandchildren

In loving memory of our beloved father and grandfather, Michael J. Benich, who went to heavenly rest one year ago today, March 4, 1956
Farewell dear father, sweet be thy rest,
One lonely year has passed away
Since our great sorrow fell.
The shock that we received that day
We still remember well.
God's golden sun is shining
Upon our father's grave.
The one we loved so dearly,
And tried so hard to save.
In silence you suffered,
In patience you bore,
'Til God called you to Him,
To suffer no more.
Sadly and dearly missed by daughters, Mrs. Katherine Miketuch, Mrs. Anna Miller, and Grandchildren.

In loving memory of our dear wife, mother and grandmother, Mrs. Marie Zyski, who died eight years ago yesterday, March 3, 1949.
Gone, dear loved one, gone forever
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by her Husband, Children and Grandchildren.

Nixon Suffers Light Case of Flu in Ghana

ACCRA, Gold Coast (UP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon received his first chance today to ease the pace of his hectic but overwhelmingly successful African tour and try to recover from a light case of flu.

The vice president has been the chief attraction here recently, but he is only one of the 70 chiefs of delegations which will mark the Gold Coast's "independence day" Wednesday when it emerges as the new state of Ghana.

On Nixon's schedule this morning was a meeting where he is expected to encounter his Soviet counterpart at the celebrations, the Russian Minister of State Farms Ivan Benediktov Chinese Communist Deputy Premier Nieh Jung-chen also may attend

Tonight there is a state dinner and Nixon will attend despite his illness. His medical officer, Col Francis Pruitt, said he was unable so far to check what he called a light case of the flu coupled with fever and complicated by lack of rest.

Nixon has been going at a furious pace since he first set foot in Africa at start of his 18,000-mile tour He has shaken countless hands and greeted thousands of others who have lined the routes to see him.

WASHINGTON (UP)— Richard L. Kirk, Harrisburg, Pa., received an Atomic Energy Commission appointment Sunday as assistant director for international organization of the division of international affairs.

Herbert Hoover Still Active at The Age of 82

NEW YORK (UP) — Herbert Hoover, 82-year-old former president, who has spent almost half his life working toward government reorganization, said Sunday "I just about think I've done my contribution."

Mr. Hoover did not use the word retirement. He still has several projects to keep him occupied, including a book he is writing about one of his heroes—Democratic World War I President Woodrow Wilson

The Republican former president said, however, he had almost completed his contribution to the cause of government reorganization to which he has dedicated more than 40 years of his public career.

Mr. Hoover appeared on a filmed (CBS) television interview, "A Visit With Herbert Hoover," with commentator Lowell Thomas The interview, which took place in the former chief executive's Waldorf-Astoria Towers suite, started with a filmed tribute to Mr. Hoover by President Eisenhower

Drying Grain After Picked Big Problem

By UNITED PRESS

Drying grain after it has been picked is a problem to all farmers, but corn is especially difficult to dry, according to the Pennsylvania Agricultural Experiment Station.

Researchers reported summer harvested grain may be dried by forcing outside air through it. But corn picked and shelled in the fall is more difficult to dry because of the colder and damper weather at that time of the year.

In a test the researchers discovered corn may be dried in bins over warm air ducts but it must be moved about to do a good job. A portable electric grain auger will serve this purpose.

Bits of trash, leaves, cornsilk and soil that accumulate in shelled corn stop the free flow of air in the drier. These bits of material may be blown out of the corn with a barn elevator fan as the grain goes into the bin.

High-pressure fans are needed to force air through the corn. The researchers found in trials that cost of drying ranged from three to seven cents a bushel. The cheapest fuel used to provide warm air in these tests was rice hard coal, but a special burner was needed.

Shade trees are a boon to any home, especially in hot weather. But many persons plant the wrong types of trees for their shade, according to William H. White, Philadelphia County agent.

White pointed out willows, lombardy poplar, Chinese elm and soft maple as trees that are not good shade trees. White said many of these have roots that plug up septic tanks, sewage and tile lines. They may also cause trouble with the lawn, he said.

White said for the new ranch-style homes there are small types of trees that are advisable to plant. Chinese or kousa dogwood, hawthorns, mountain ash, golden chain and magnolias are good shade trees. White noted.

Taller shade trees White mentioned are pine, scarlet and red oak, thornless honeylocust and sweetgum. Tall shade trees, according to White, have tap roots like a carrot.

White advises everyone to buy the trees from only a reliable licensed Pennsylvania nurseryman. He said to be sure to get freshly dug shade trees.

Turncoat Gets Friendly Welcome Home; Job

OKLAHOMA CITY (UP)—Samuel David Hawkins, a former GI who changed his mind about staying in Red China, returned home Sunday to a friendly welcome and the promise of a job.

All Hawkins could say when reunited with his mother, Mrs. Carley Jones, was "Ma'" He had last seen her in 1949 when he entered the Army at the age of 16 and was sent to Korea

The turncoat former soldier's bride was still in Hong Kong, unable to get an entry permit to accompany her husband.

Hawkins, 23, received his fare home from M. H. Champion, a sympathetic oilman. Champion is now working to get Hawkins' White Russian wife, Tanya, permission to join her husband of eight months.

Champion brought Mrs Jones to the airport to greet her son.

He was received with a smile handshakes and greetings from townsfolk, but he said "I'm not through the gate yet." Later he said "I think I'll make it"

Hawkins said he refused repatriation after the Korean War "because of a lot of conflicting emotions"

He said "fear of persecution was one thing" which made him refuse repatriation. "I halfway believed what they told me" he said.

He was one of 21 American soldiers and prisoners of war who refused to come home from Communist China. One has died, six have preceded him to American soil and 13 remain in China.

Your Health—

Tuberculosis Is Still Big Threat Today

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

YOU don't hear much about tuberculosis any more. Get into a discussion with anyone about the disease and they're likely to respond:

"TB?" Why that's all licked. Look how the death rate has dropped. It's no problem any more."

Well, let's look at the record. It's true, fortunately, that we have cut the TB death rate by 90 percent in the last half century.

But it's also true that tuberculosis still strikes one American every five minutes; that nearly 60,000,000 Americans are infected with TB germs right now, and that about 400,000 of them have active cases.

At least 1,200,000 of these TB victims need medical care or medical supervision for either active or inactive cases. And 400,000 of them probably don't even know they have the disease.

With so many persons capable of spreading the infection, I think you'll agree that tuberculosis still presents quite a sizable problem.

Who is likely to become a victim of TB?

Tuberculosis can strike anyone, any time, anywhere. It can kill at all ages.

Recently, however, we have observed that TB is becoming more a disease of older persons. More new cases and more deaths occur in middle life and old age than in the younger years.

Men appear to be more vulnerable since TB attacks about twice as many men as women. Especially hard hit by the disease are Negroes, Americans of Spanish descent and American Indians.

You give the germ a better chance to gain a foothold if you are in poor general health. An inadequate diet, frequent exposure to infections, poor housing — these are among the numerous health and social problems which help lower the body's resistance.

Yet, even if you're in good health, you've got to protect yourself from the ever present danger of tuberculosis.

To be sure, see your doctor.

TV Columnist Tells About All That Loot

NEW YORK (UP)—The question asked most often of a TV columnist is: "What do you do with all that loot you get?"

Well, it's a pretty good question. You take the past few days. I've received a straw hat, five shares of stock in a silver mine, a crate of citrus fruit and a pizza pie.

The straw skimmer was a dandy. Right across the band, it said: "Maurice Chevalier's Paris — NBC-TV — Wed., March 6." Couldn't have wanted a nicer message on my hat.

And I would have worn it, too, except it was about the size of a half-dollar. A little small for me, but just about right for a friend of mine. He's a midget who has just had his head sanforized.

The shares of stock were for real. They were sent to plug an upcoming (plug) "G.E. Theatre" (deplug) thriller. Their worth—15 cents a share. The last time they paid a dividend was two years before money was invented. I plan to bequeath them to NBC so they can buy larger hats.

Leader Submits Highway Budget to Legislature

To Push State Revenue Needs Over $2 Billion

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader will submit his state Highways Department budget to the Legislature this week to bring his estimated overall revenue needs above the $2-billion mark for the first time in Commonwealth history.

The governor plans to outline the highway needs figured at about $600,000,000 in a message Tuesday, without appearing before the lawmakers.

Leader previously estimated General Fund needs at $1.6-billion. The Highways Department projects are financed out of the Motor License Fund and the state will have additional commitments under the new federal interstate highways program.

The governor was reported ready to ask the Legislature to continue the present six cents a gallon tax on gasoline despite House passage last week of a bill to have it drop to five cents on May 31. He was expected to drop a proposal to raise passenger automobile license fees from $10 to $15.

Retain Sales Tax

Meanwhile, Republican legislative leaders decided to retain the House-approved 3 per cent sales tax in its present form instead of converting it into a general sales tax.

Senate Majority Leader Rowland B. Mahany (R-Crawford) had suggested that a general sales tax instead of the present levy on a selected list of 17 items might produce more revenue. But GOP leaders at a conference Sunday night agreed that retention of the present law would cut down the possibility of special interests seeking new exemptions.

No action was expected this week on the $995,000,000 General Fund tax package approved by the House last Tuesday. The Senate Finance Committee, headed by Sen. Edward J. Kessler (R-Lancaster) plans to report the bills to the Senate floor for action by March 15 after consulting with the House leadership on possible minor amendments.

Erie Youth Is Held for Making Nickel 'Slugs'

ERIE, Pa. (UP)—A 16-year-old Erie boy, who detectives said had a "minor mint" in the basement of his home, was under arrest today on a charge of counterfeiting nickels.

City detectives said the boy confessed that he made about 60 "slugs" in the past month which he used for bus fares and getting change from classmates. Detectives said the counterfeit nickels would not work in vending machines.

Detective Inspector Frank Figaski said the boy's arrest came about through an anonymous letter to police headquarters. Figaski said it was believed the letter came from a girl friend, who indicated that she knew the boy was counterfeiting coins but did not want him to "succeed" because he may have gone on to worse crimes.

The boy was in the custody of juvenile authorities, pending an investigation by federal authorities, polices aid.

Plea for Evangelical Reawakening Made

BUCK HILL FALLS, Pa. (UP)—Pleas for intensive evangelical work in the United States and for unification of all American protestant churches and their mission agencies was made here today by Methodist church executives.

The Rev. Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen, president of the Union Theological Seminary in New York, said the rapid growth of nationalism in every part of the world, the reawakening of the ancient religions of Asia——due to the nationalistic upsurges and political revolutions in every country——are reasons why the missionary program of Christian churches must be strengthened and speeded.

The Rev. Dr. W. Vernon Middleton, of Philadelphia, the General Secretary of the Methodist Churchs' Division of National Missions, said, "even though more than half of all Americans belong to some church it is dangerous to assume the United States is a Christian nation."

The two church leaders are attending a national conference on missions of the Women's Division of Christian Service attended by more than 300 women representing 1,800,000 Methodist women throughout the United States.

"There is a need for a single board—an ecumenical board of missions representing all missions—in each of the major fields," Van Dusen said. "The world situation calls for a radically new strategy with each denomination contributing resources and personnel to the direction of that board, and for a world christian missionary council directing the whole."

Van Dusen said the shocking scandal of the Christian church is there has not been one century in 2,000 years that has not seen a rupture in the church body and it is only in recent years that there has been a reuniting of the parts.

"We are at the dawning of a new day in the church—the dawning of the united and ecumenical church," he said.

Seeking an intensive program of missionary work on the national level, Middleton said statistics are deceptive and cannot make America a Christian nation.

He pointed out television programs have increased the sale of the Bible and popular songs have added a pseudo-religious emphasis, but the "hard facts" point in the opposite direction.

He blamed the rising rate of juvenile delinquency, especially among girls, on the fact that Christian churches have retreated from the centers of great cities which are the breeding places of crime.

"The religious majorities have not been too concerned over the increased use of drugs, alcoholic beverages, gambling, the excessive emphasis on sex and the petty dishonesties of life," he said.

Middleton said American Christians are enthusiastic about conversion of peoples all over the world, but uninterested and resentful when the same people are found in their midst.

"All these factors, and many more, make our nation a continuing challenge for Christian missions," he said.

Be 'Cradle Snatcher' Expert Tells Women

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Women should marry men younger than themselves and ignore society for calling them "cradle snatchers", says Dr. Marion Langer, a sociologist.

"All things being equal, it is wise to marry a man five, six or even seven years your junior," said the youthful Dr. Langer, who does marital and family counseling.

She said a girl reaps a two-fold return by selecting a mate younger than herself—she increases the chances of a happy marriage, and she decreases the chances of one day being widowed.

"Numerous studies indicate that marriages, where the husband is younger, are successful," said Mrs. Langer, who is executive secretary of the American Orthopsychiatric Assn., a professional organization.

Women Live Longer

Take the problem of widowhood. Mrs. Langer, a widow and mother of an 11-year-old boy, pointed to government statistics on how acute it has become in this country. Woman's life span is longer than man's. At present, there are more than 7.5 million widows—13 per cent of our adult population.

At the rate we're going, things won't improve. Woman's life span continues to increase over man's, she said.

"The male mortality rate starts early," said Mrs. Langer in an interview. "More male than female babies are born, but more male infants than female die in the first year of life.

"Women now are in excess in all but four countries of the world."

In this country, women outnumber the men by more than two million.

Dr. Langer said our society has two solutions to the male shortage. Polygamy, or finding a way to lengthen man's life expectancy. OR, maybe both.

Polygamy Urged

"I doubt if our society would accept polygamy now," she said, "although we may have to some day. I notice that a senator in Tennessee the other day offered a polygamy bill."

(Tennessee Sen. Harlan Dodson's bill would permit polygamy to "alleviate the surplus of women." He said every woman has the "inherent right of the joys and comforts of matrimony.")

This discussion of the male shortage came about because Mrs. Langer has written a book called "Learning To Live As A Widow" (Gilbert Press, Inc.). Her husband, an admiralty lawyer, died seven years ago.

She said one of the biggest mistakes the widow makes is in not looking ahead. She too often buries herself in memories . . . lets the "if onlys" take over.

And others, she said, are not always helpful. Once a widow's grief has lessened, if she becomes active socially, other women—the non-widows—look at her with misgivings.

"There is," said Dr. Langer, "a saying in Spanish which goes—a buxom widow should either be remarried immediately or else killed."

Israel

to withdraw from both areas regardless of any attempts at delay.

—Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban goes before the United Nations General Assembly this afternoon to restate Israel's position on withdrawal. The Asian - African bloc at the UN was threatening to demand an immediate vote on sanctions if the pullout was further delayed.

With the political decision made—and the Israeli cabinet's decision was said to be final—it was up to Burns and Dayan to work out the technical details of withdrawal.

Informed sources already had indicated this pattern of pullout:

From Gaza — a routine backward movement by Israel's skeleton holding force, with Swedish UNEF troops expected to be the first in to replace the Israelis. It was expected the civil administration would impose a daytime curfew to keep Arabs indoors during the movement.

From Sharm El Sheikh — a movement by sea. Two frigates of the Israeli navy already were standing by to remove the last Israeli troops at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba. It is 165 miles from there to the nearest Israeli soil.

The announcement came after a harrowing week end in which Ben-Gurion strove desperately to save his government against opposition at home and in transatlantic telephone conferences with Washington to obtain firm U.S. assurances of Israeli security. It appeared a letter from President Eisenhower may have saved the day for him.

A 'SPLASH' HIT — Singer Eddie Fisher and Rebecca Cochenet, queen of the Sportsmen's Show in Philadelphia, makes a "splash" hit in the pool — but it was not on the program. Miss Cochenet, 20, of Atlantic City, N. J., was presenting to Fisher a fishing rod at the edge of the four-foot-deep pond, when she suddenly lost her footing and toppled into the water, dragging the singer in with her.

Ike Doctrine Senate OK Is Expected

Vote May Be Held Tomorrow

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower's Middle East "shield" plan appeared today to have a clear track and a green light for Senate approval this week.

Israel's announced intention of withdrawing from Egypt and defeat of a major amendment removed the chief remaining obstacles.

A hitch in Israel's withdrawal plans might cause a slight delay in final passage, now forecast by Senate leaders for Tuesday night.

But there appeared little likelihood even a delay in Israeli withdrawal would block final Senate approval.

Senate Meets Early

The Senate met an hour early to push final debate on the measure, which already has consumed two weeks of debate. No votes were expected today.

The Senate version of the Eisenhower Doctrine states it to be U.S. policy to use armed force if President Eisenhower deems it necessary to combat any Communist attack on a Middle East nation seeking American help.

This is a modified edition of the House-passed resolution that would give the President "authority" to use U.S. force if he deems it necessary to help a Middle East nation under Red attack. Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have agreed not to fight the Senate version.

Aid Funds Included

However some compromise language may be sought when Senate-House negotiators meet to adjust the differing versions. The President originally asked for clear "authority" to use U.S. force in the Middle East if requested by a mideast nation to combat a Communist attack. Many senators insist he already has such authority.

Both the pending Senate and House-passed versions contain the President's request for authority to use up to $200 million already-appropriated funds as he sees fit for economic and arms aid to Mideast nations.

Under strong administration pressure, the Senate Saturday defeated, 58 to 28 an amendment by Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) and other Democrats to strip the aid proviso from the resolution.

Steel in Reported Pickup

CLEVELAND (UP)—Steel Magazine today noted several signs of an expected strengthening in steel demand in May and June.

According to the metalworking publication sellers of hot - rolled carbon steel bars in the Philadelphia and New York areas believe consumer inventory adjustments will have run their course by the end of April, and buying in May and June will be on the upgrade.

The present state of business is not bad, Steel said, and warehouses in those areas saw the daily average of their February business equal, and in some cases exceed, January's daily average.

Other signs noted by the magazine include a slight pickup for April delivery of steel bars in the Boston area, a modest increase of agricultural implements in the Chicago area and at Seattle, order backlogs for reinforcing bars are substantial.

Warning Issued

On the West Coast most mills' second quarter order books are just about filled, and indications point to full books for the third.

Steel quoted a warning from the National Association of Purchasing Agents which told its members to be wary of a massive reduction in their steel inventories, because of the expected increase in demand.

Steel ingot production remained at a high level through the week ending March 3rd, despite a one-half point decline.

The nation's mills operated at 97 per cent of capacity last week.

Production was down in February from the mark it reached a year ago, but only becuase Feb. ruary 1957 had one less day, the magazine reported.

Output in February was around 9,965,000 net tons, making the production in the first two months of 1957 about equal to the corresponding period last year.

Three Promoted at Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Three promotions were announced today at the Monessen Works of Pittsburgh Steel Co. by Edwin A. Dawson, works manager.

Two of the promotions are in the blooming mill and the other in the blast furnace department. They are:

Walter R. Bethem, 921 McClintock avenue, Belle Vernon, has been named general foreman of the blooming mill.

William C. McMullen, Long Branch, R. D. 1, Coal Center, has been advanced to general foreman in charge of blooming mill engines and water works.

Paul Hanak, 1921 Grand boulevard, Monessen, has been named mechanical foreman of blast furnace maintenance.

Bethem, a native of Charleroi, joined Pittsburgh Steel in 1946 as an apprentice machinist. He became a machinist in 1949 and was named assistant general foreman of the blooming mill four years ago. He and his wife, Marguerite, have three children, Dennis, Alice Joyce and Lorraine.

McMullen, a native of Donora, joined Pittsburgh Steel in 1926 as a blooming mill engine oiler. Later, he worked in the wire mill's testing lab, in the pipe shop and was a repair supervisor at the time of his promotion. He and his wife, Zelda, have a daughter, Gail.

Hanak was born in Phoenixville, and joined Pittsburgh Steel in 1945 as a cast house and scrap yard laborer. Shortly after, he transferred to the rigging gang and was a gang leader at the time of his promotion. He and his wife, Mary, have three children, Barry, Richard and Paulette.

Mail Destroyed By Fire on Railroad Car

MIFFLINTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Thousands of letters and parcels were destroyed Sunday in a fire which swept the interior of a sealed mail car on a Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train.

The car contained approximately 1,800 sacks of mail and parcels placed aboard at Providence, R.I., and destined for delivery or rehandling in Pittsburgh, postal authorities said.

C. E. Kuhn, postal inspector at Harrisburg, Pa., ordered the car held at a siding in Mifflin, across the Juniata River from here, until postal authorities reclaim all salvagable mail.

Kuhn said the extent of the loss could not be known until a check of each sack is made.

The fire was spotted aboard the westbound New York - to - Pittsburgh express, the Duquesne, by an engineer of an eastbound train. He contacted the Mifflin control tower by radio-telephone and the Duquesne was stopped at Mifflin.

Mifflin firemen, unable to douse the flames with chemicals, had the train moved one mile to the Municipal water works where the fire was put out.

The train arrived at Pittsburgh two hours later.

Truman Critical Of U. S. Policy

OMAHA, Neb. (UP)— Former President Harry S. Truman Sunday night called the Eisenhower Doctrine "clearly an emergency reaction" which is only a beginning toward solving the problems of the Middle East.

Mr. Truman described the Middle East situation as a danger "that is now of the most threatening proportions" due to relations between Israel and the Arab states which he said "are based on suspicion and violence."

He spoke of the Middle East troubles before the Beth Israel Synagogue, which presented him with its "Man of the Year" award for his efforts in helping establish Israel as a state.

'Mystery' Witnesses In Police Inquiry

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Three "mystery" witnesses were scheduled to appear before Safety Director Louis Rosenberg today in a top-level investigation of the shooting of a police lieutenant in a downtown after-hours club.

Rosenberg said two of the witnesses were at the Athletic Boosters Assn. early Feb. 24 when Lt. Allen Carnahan was wounded. Carnahan, recovering in Allegheny General Hospital of thigh wounds, also will be questioned as soon as doctors permit.

Carnahan said Shirley Cavanaugh, 28, who has a record of morals offenses shot him as he sat at the bar of the ABA club.

Miss Cavanaugh is being held in county jail while her attorney attempts to nullify an indeterminate sentence at the State Industrial Home for Women at Muncy. She was sentenced as a parole violator last week.

Rosenberg said he hoped to get "someone on the inside" of the club who "saw or heard what went on."

"There are three possible witnesses I wouldn't want to name," Rosenberg said, "two of whom I hope will have information bearing directly on the shooting."

CHICAGO (UP)—Chicago celebrated its 120th birthday today with a bang. A composite battery from the 33rd Division Artillery Illinois National Guard fired a 120-gun salute.

Family Suffers More Tragedy; Father Dies

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va. (UP)—Tragedy has struck again at the home of 8-year-old Paula Martin who lost both legs a few years ago to the ravages of a rare blood disease.

Her father, Paul, 43, died Sunday after an illness of several months. He had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage last August.

In 1953 the entire Martin family was stricken with a rare blood ailment.

All recovered fully except Paula, who was four at the time. Both her legs had to be amputated.

Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower wrote Paula a letter in which she expressed her deep sympathy for the little girl who had "known tragedy so early in life."

Paul's sister, Sally, 15, died last year.

The other Martins are the mother, Evelyn; Charles 12, Paula's twin sister, Patty, and Suzie, 6.

The Martins once lived in Pittsburgh, where the father was employed as a camera salesman at a department store.

Fluoridation Is Health Bargain, Experts Say

(Second in a series)

Fluoridation of a community water supply is shaping up as the best public health bargain of all time, so claim supporters of the program.

For less than 15 cents per program per year, the ravages of tooth decay are being reduced as much as 65 per cent in communities throughout the United States, experts say.

The cost of a single filling would pay for the fluoride for one person for many years.

This and many other important aspects will be raised at a tri-community meeting to discuss fluoridation of our public water supply tomorrow night at the Monessen High School auditorium.

Sponsored by the Monessen Junior Women's Club, the open meeting will begin at 8 p. m.

Representatives of parent-teacher groups, medical and dental groups, church, civic and social groups, teachers, labor groups and business men have been invited to the meeting.

Fluoridation is a process by which the chemical, fluorine, is added to the water supply for the purpose of controlling tooth decay.

The process can't be used in the water unless it is approved by a majority of the citizens in the communities of Monessen, Charleroi or Donora, all of whom buy water from the Authority of the Borough of Charleroi.

Cost of equipment has been found to range from several hundred dollars for a small town to several thousand dollars for a medium sized city.

From an engineering standpoint, according to a water works association, adding fluorine to the water supply is no more involved than adding chlorine.

The late Dr. John G. Frisch, of Madison, Wis., as chairman of the fluorine committee of the Wisconsin Dental Society, which pioneered in the procedure, once said:

"There can be no question as to whether a city can afford it, but whether any city can afford to be without it."

There are to date more than 1,300 communities in the United States and Canada using the process.

Tomorrow: Arguments pro and con.

New Metal for Use with Jets

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Westinghouse Electric Corp. has developed a high - strength, high-temperature metal designed to push back the "heat barrier" encountered by jet engines in supersonic flight.

D. W. Gunther, manager of Westinghouse Materials Engineering Department, said the new metal is used in the red hot interiors of jet engines. He described it as a "significant advancement in the field of gas turbine disc materials."

"As jet planes travel faster and faster into the realm of supersonic flight, they encounter what is commonly called the 'heat barrier'—excessive heating of the plane due to its own impact with onrushing air," Gunther explained.

Pennsylvania Loses Another Plant

ANOTHER important Pennsylvania company, the Universal-Cyclops Steel Corp., has announced a decision to expand outside Pennsylvania. It will build its new plant in Ohio.

The officials of this company have given two reasons for their decision: (1) high state taxes in Pennsylvania and (2) higher power rates than are available in Ohio.

The first of these reasons has come to be a familiar one. So familiar is it, in fact, that Pennsylvania, rightly or wrongly, has a reputation even among its own people as a high-tax state, a state whose tax policies discourage industrial expansion and therefore increased employment.

Employers' organizations such as the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association and the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce are doing their best to foster this notion. Their leaders are continually making speeches about it, speeches which are usually widely quoted outside Pennsylvania and make the very best kind of anti-Pennsylvania propaganda for competitive states.

What is the truth about this matter, anyway? It seems to us high time that some responsible body was assigned to make a disinterested study and give the people and their legislative representatives the cold facts.

The Joint State Government Commission has wisely decided to ask the Universal-Cyclops officials who were responsible for selecting the Ohio location to provide the detailed information which dictated this decision. This should be a helpful start, and it would be well to follow the same course with Westinghouse and General Motors and some of the other companies which have recently rejected Pennsylvania for new plants. It would be most helpful if these companies would spell out the facts.

* * *

THE SECOND REASON given by Universal-Cyclops for preferring Ohio to Pennsylvania is one which we have not happened to hear before. In fact, several of the power companies which operate in Pennsylvania have been among its most aggressive and effective industrial development sales agents. So certainly they will want to correct promptly, we should think, any disparity between industrial power rates in Pennsylvania and those available in Ohio — if there really is such a disparity.

* * *

THIS IS a serious problem, and it calls for immediate and expert attention at Harrisburg and also in the local communities throughout Pennsylvania. Both Governor Leader and the Republican leaders of the Assembly ought to make it a subject for an early investigation.

The industrial leaders of the state can be most helpful in this, we believe, not by continuing to make speeches broadcasting what they believe to be Pennsylvania's shortcomings, nor by seeking to have industry pay less than its proper share of the cost of state government. They can help most by working with the authorities of the state government on a tax program which will be fair to all.

Campaign Costs

AS A RESULT of a congressional investigation of spending in last year's presidential campaign, Senator Gore, of Tennessee, has introduced what he calls a "tough" bill designed to curtail the amount spent in presidential campaigns and to restrict the sources of contributions.

The Gore committee reported that it could account for more than $33 million spent in behalf of the two presidential tickets. And it said that much more than this actually was spent but could not be readily traced because of the inadequacy of present laws.

Senator Gore proposes to control the total amount of campaign spending by a formula based on the number of votes cast in the previous presidential election. And he would limit to $1,000 the amount an individual could contribute to campaign funds in any one election.

The matter needs further study and discussion. But it seems to us quite in order for Congress to be tough about it. Money is playing far too important a role in our election processes.

Mayor Lawrence of Pittsburgh is in West Germany studying municipal problems. Reading the news from Pittsburgh these days we get the impression he will not lack for opportunities to put to work anything he may be learning.

A meeting is to be held at Monessen High School tomorrow evening to discuss the possibility of fluoridating the water supply of Monessen, Charleroi and Donora. This could be one of the most important civic meetings in a long time.

Merry-Go-Round—

Caudle Judge Was Under Mental Care

By DREW PEARSON

ST. LOUIS, Mo. — On the morning of July 7, 1956, at 9:30 U. S. District Judge Rubey Hulen went into the back yard of his home in St. Louis, aimed a .32 revolver at his temple, and pulled the trigger. He died four hours later at the Barnes Hospital. It was one of the few times in the history of the United States that a Federal judge committed suicide.

Mr. Pearson

At 10 A. M. that same day Judge Hulen was scheduled to go to the same hospital where he died, for another purpose. He was to get shock therapy to rouse him out of a depression partly brought on by a trial over which he had presided. It was the trial of President Truman's appointment secretary, Matt Connelly, and former Assistant Attorney General Lamar Caudle.

From remarks Judge Hulen made from the bench and to his doctors, it was obvious that the trial preyed on him. He even expressed the private opinion that there might have been a miscarriage of justice. A jury on June 14 had found Caudle and Connelly guilty of conspiracy to help Irving Sachs, a St. Louis shoe manufacturer, evade taxes; and on July 19 Judge Hulen was scheduled either to sentence them or grant them a new trial.

Here in St. Louis I found that a friend who invited the judge to go for a drive a few days before his death had found him with a pad of paper and pencil trying to write an opinion in the case. "They didn't do any more than you or I would have done," he said. He expressed frustration as to how he could write a fair opinion.

To another friend he said: "I've got those poor devils on my hands."

He went out less and less during and after the trial. Mrs. Hulen said the trial preyed on his mind. His doctor had to put him under heavy drugs so he could sleep at night. For a time, during the trial, his mind was such that his doctors considered giving him shock therapy. However, this type of treatment for a mentally ill person causes a complete though temporary loss of memory, and would have made it impossible to continue with the trial.

So the shock therapy was postponed until after the trial was over. Thirty minutes before he was to begin that treatment, Judge Hulen killed himself.

Judge Hulen was considered a "tough" judge. He was not easy on defendants. He had also experienced periods of depression prior to this trial. But his doctors found that he got much worse just before and during the trial.

Another Dreyfus Case

If you examine the facts in the case over which Judge Hulen had to preside, you can understand some of the reasons why he might become mentally upset. For the case could turn out to be as unfair as the famous case of Capt. Alfred Dreyfus.

For three years Attorney General Brownell had been probing the various activities of Truman's close friends and officials. Some of them needed probing. Most of them had been pretty well exposed in this column or by Congressional investigation some years before. Obviously, however, a criminal conviction in 1956 would make important campaign material for an election year.

For over two years Brownell had been holding grand juries in St. Louis, Omaha and Kansas City, Harry Truman's home territory. Virtually the same officials were hauled out to testify — ex-Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder, ex-Under Secretary Ed Foley, Caudle, various revenue men. The juries in Kansas City and Omaha were un-responsive. But that in St. Louis was out for blood.

Finally Brownell's boys hit on the case of Irving Sachs, a St. Louis shoe manufacturer suffering from extreme epilepsy. Though there was a call from the White House on Sachs' behalf, and though some wires were pulled, Caudle sent him to trial anyway. He pleaded guilty and was fined $40,000. He also paid fraud penalties of $70,000. Judge Roy Harper ruled against a jail sentence because of health.

This column had carried the full story on April 24, 1950. The story had come from Caudle himself. He was completely frank, had nothing to hide. Almost six years later, well after the statute of limitation had run, Brownell's boys indicted him and Connelly. They took the case before their runaway grand jury in St. Louis, which would have indicted almost anyone close to the Truman administration.

It's a Fact—

The first ballet in the United States was presented in New York in 1827.

U. S. Communists Show Hand

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

QUESTION — Recently you discussed the action of the Communist Party in the United States through which it sought to appear to be divorcing itself from the Moscow line. I gained the impression that you thought this would be a good thing. My question is: Wouldn't an American Communist Party be just as subversive of our Democratic society as a Soviet-controlled Communist Party?

ANSWER — I Mr. Drummond would like to point out at the start that there is no basis in fact for accepting the Communists' claim that the party has broken its ties with the Kremlin. All they have actually done is to assert that they might use a little independence in interpreting theoretical Marxism-Leninism. Even that remains to be seen.

Several aspects of the New York convention of the Communist Party, which did not come out at the time, show that while the Communists were talking independence they were toeing the Moscow line.

A false reason was given for excluding the press. (Communist reporters were present at the Democratic and Republican conventions.) The stated reason for the exclusion was that if some of the delegates were identified it might imperil their jobs. But when the reporters asked that a loudspeaker be installed in the press room so they could hear, if not see, the processdings, this was emphatically rejected. This made it much easier for the Party spokesmen to "interpret" the convention actions to suit their tactics.

Two Opportunities

There were two ready-made opportunities whereby the Communist Party could have shown its independence of the Soviet Union — and failed to do so. It had before it a resolution criticizing the Kremlin's bloody repression of the Hungarian workers. It shunted this aside. It had before it a resolution critical of Soviet anti-Semitism and calling for a return to the 1919 to 1935 policy of equal rights for Jews. It shunted this aside. Both resolutions were conveniently referred to committee.

When any Communist Party in the United States remains silent on what Moscow's tanks did to the Hungarians and condones its anti-Semitic measures, it means that it is subservient to Moscow.

How then, can we ever know whether the Communist Party in the U. S. is breaking, decisively with the F.B.I. in turning up Americans whom it knows to be traitors because they acted as agents for a foreign power, then the Communist Party would be exhibiting real independence. Is that an unfair test — loyalty to one's own nation over loyalty to the Soviet Union?

I don't know that this will ever happen; the odds are strongly against it. But it seems to me that it is beneficial to the West whenever a Communist Party or regime breaks with Moscow — as Tito did, as the Polish and Hungarians tried to do — because it means that such a Communist Party is no longer an instrument of Soviet imperialism. Communism divorced from a powerful state would be a greatly weakened force.

As to whether a "nationalist" Communist Party would be as subversive of our form of government as a Soviet-controlled party, my answer would be: Yes, it would seek the same pernicious ends it always sought; namely, a political dictatorship, the suffocation of a free society, an end to equal justice under the law, extinction of free speech, free assembly and freedom of religion.

The evil objectives of the Communist Party would not be changed by separation from Moscow, but it strikes me that unless the Communists are fortified and nourished by a worldwide movement, they are likely to find much of the steam leaking out of their cause. Remember that Titoism is not just a party in Yugoslavia — it is the state itself.

Perhaps the most significant fact about the Communist Party in the United States today is that its leadership is getting older and older. Where is this "young, new-look Communist Party" its leaders talk about? Apart from two or three young Negroes, there wasn't a delegate at the New York convention under 40. Of the 20 new members of the party executive, the average age is 45, the average length of service in the party 22 years.

American youth has handsomely rejected the Communist Party.

Behind The News—

Vishinsky Now Being Denounced by Reds

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Soviet Russian leaders are attacking another dead man in their attempt to absolve themselves from complicity in Josef Stalin's crimes.

This time the target is Andrei Y. Vishinsky, the chief state prosecutor in the great "purge" trials of old Bolshevik leaders.

Izvestia, the newspaper organ of the Soviet government, has denounced Vishinsky for his sponsorship of the theory that a confession by a defendant is sufficient proof of his guilt.

Moscow dispatches suggest that Nikita S. Khrushchev and his fellow collective leaders may announce the reopening of some of the purge trials, so they can declare the victims—long dead—innocent.

At the same time, it is reported that the Soviet government is getting ready to "decentralize" the national police system and give more control of police forces to local authorities.

There must be good reason, as Soviet leaders see it, both for the attack on Vishinsky and for the police decentralization plan.

Obviously, they constitute another step in the painful attempt by the men who worked with Stalin, who heaped adulation on him and vituperation on the purge trial defendants, to convince the Russian people, and the world, that they too were his victims.

Presumably, the object also is to convince the Russians that they really have a new deal and thus to help quiet the unrest and critical questioning which started when Stalin was denounced last year.

Vishinsky Was Ruthless

But it is almost incredible that any Russian will be stupid enough to take any stock in the new gestures.

Vishinsky was a ruthless man even for a Communist leader.

From state prosecutor, he rose to be foreign minister. When Stalin died, Vishinsky was in New York attending a United Nations session. Vishinsky learned there next day that he had been demoted to a deputy foreign minister and made permanent delegate to the U.N. He died of a heart attack in New York on Nov. 22, 1954.

Vishinsky's system as state prosecutor was simple and efficient. If the charges against a defendant were too flimsy to be backed up, the confession of the defendant himself, broken by torture, was accepted as what Vishinsky called "sovereign proof" of guilt.

System Questioned

The Vishinsky system was first questioned in the Moscow magazine "Soviet State and Law" in April, 1956. Vishinsky, the magazine said, had gone too far.

Now Izvestia, with the weight of an official government organ, says Vishinsky's system was all wrong. It might, Izvestia said, have "created the possibility of unjustified sentences."

Nobody will doubt that. But will anybody even in Russia believe the system is being changed? Any prosecutor or police chief who could not manufacture sufficient evidence to convict a defendant would not last long in Soviet Russia today.

The same may be said of the plan for a decentralized police force, also reported in "Soviet State and Law." Things may look different on paper. But the policemen will be the same, and the dictatorship they act under will not have been altered.

Story of Red Spies in The U. S. Rambles on

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—The story of Communist spying in the United States rambles on, generally attracting less attention than last year's fashion in women's wear.

Whether there was much, little or no Communist infiltration of government during the Roosevelt and Truman administration has become more a matter of political dispute than a matter of fact.

Mr. Wilson

The record to date suggests that the infiltration was considerable and effective, although the record still falls short of persuading many persons that such as the fact. Former President Truman, for example, does not see it that way at all.

HST Backed White

This Communist infiltration of government scarcely figured in the 1956 presidential campaign, but Mr. Truman was induced to discuss it on Labor Day during a Milwaukee television interview. The news index, "Facts on File," attributes to Mr. Truman on that occasion a statement that the late Harry Dexter White was not "guilty of anything."

White had been accused in congressional hearings during Mr. Truman's administration of aiding the Communists. White notably figured in the 1948 disclosures of Elizabeth Bentley and Whittaker Chambers as a source of information which was passed on to espionage agents of the Soviet Union.

Three days after White appeared before congressional investigators in 1948, he died under somewhat mysterious circumstances.

Caused China's Downfall?

Comes now, however, the report of a subcommittee of the Senate Internal Security Committee with a report on testimony taken last year. The committee and the subcommittee are creatures of a Democratic Congress, for whatever significance that may have in view of their judgment of White, who served a Democratic administration.

The subcommittee reported that a Communist underground apparatus of Harry Dexter White had brought about the economic destruction of Nationalist China. It said that White "and his fellow conspirators" held back millions of dollars in gold shipments to China during World War II.

White's associates were named as Frank Coe, Solomon Adler and Irving S. Friedman. Secretary of Treasury Henry W. Morgenthau Jr. served under Franklin D. Roosevelt and under Mr. Truman. The subcommittee reported that Morgenthau approved a shipment of $200 million, gold, to China in 1943, but that only $29 million had gone forward two years later. The investigators said Morgenthau was hoodwinked by his man, White.

Fairly Spoken—

Rained the Day That Mr. Gromyko Smiled

By MARGARET LATROBE

Russia's new foreign minister, Andrei Gromyko — in case you forget — is the debonair Communist whose facial structure resembles one of those unsmiling tractors "invented" by his countrymen. So grave was his demeanor that upon one departure for Moscow, newspapers headlined — — "Departing Gromyko Surprises With Smile."

Mrs. Latrobe

I once saw Gromyko laugh. None of your half-hearted, wet spaghetti grins. Nor a wishy-washy chuckle. This was a resounding laugh — short, perhaps, but from the heart.

It was a rainy night in New York, about theatre time. Luckless folk abroad on such a night know their chances of getting anywhere from anywhere are slimmer than mortgage money. A little cluster of forlorn ticket-holders stood at the east door of the Plaza Hotel, wishing they had been born ducks.

Ladies in open-toed sandals and wilting tulle hovered inside, motioning to their exasperated escorts to hurry — hurry! The doorman was wading above his ankles in swirling water, helping occasional successful fares into the cabs.

Then came the Russians, stepping briskly ahead of everyone in the cluttered doorway, clearing a wide path for dignitary Gromyko. Horrors — his car was not there. One of those capitalist rhubarbs, you know — Gromyko's car had obviously not missed cue very often.

Great hubbub. Doorman stepping lively, blowing his whistle, signalling for the long black limousine to pull alongside the curb.

New York cabs are driven by a very stalwart crew, with distinct manners and customs all their own. One of which is articulate hatred for private automobiles and pedestrians, in that order. As the Plaza's doorman struggled to maneuver the Gromyko car to the curb, four taxis gave remarkable account of themselves in forestalling the Russian chauffeur.

Over their dented fenders would such an end-play occur. Gromyko preferring the drenching rain to the giggling ladies, could not keep a straight face. Communism or the New York cabbies? Who would win the flood-tide race?

The Russian car slid toward the curb, missing it by two feet, and Comrade Andrei leapt in, followed by an aide whose job it was to tip the floundering doorman. In the hurried exchange, a silver coin sparkled through their fingers and landed in the rushing rainfall — one lone dime. The doorman's jaw fell slack as he glared from Gromyko to the watery reward. As he lofully spurned to retrieve it, the dime was swept off toward a nearby shop of fashion!

That did it. Diplomatic dourness to the winds! Gromyko threw his head back and laughed. None of the rest of us got the joke.

'This Is Your Life' Honors Mrs. Beery

"This Is Your Life — Mrs. W. O. Beery" was the theme of the program presented as a surprise on Friday evening at a meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church. The members gathered in the sanctuary of the church and Mrs. W. O. Beery, who has served as president of the group for about 37 years, opened the session.

Mrs. H. Vernon Bowers was in charge of the devotional program after which Mrs. Frank Crise, program chairman, took over. Mrs. Crise summoned Mrs. Beery to the platform and seated her beside a table on which was placed a large bouquet of jonquils. She then informed Mrs. Beery that this program was dedicated to the president, who was affiliated with many people during her tenure.

Many Greetings

Mrs. Crise had written to many people with whom Mrs. Beery was associated and received letters and greetings from them for the program. These were read at intervals by members of the Fellowship as the program progressed under Mrs. Crise's direction.

The opening selection was "I Love You Truly" sung by a trio composed of Mrs. Glenn Barnes, Mrs. John Wilding and Mrs. Donald Ries.

Mrs. John Wilding then read a letter from Mrs. G. V. Hudson, of Sebring, Fla. Then bringing greetings to Mrs. Beery were her niece, Mrs. Charles Llewellyn III, and her daughter, Mrs. Richard M. Bow. Representing Mrs. B. R. Rogers, of Sebring, Fla. was Mrs. Jack Beck and Mrs. Glenn Barnes read the letter from Mrs. Elsie Rogers, of Panama Canal Zone.

The Rev. Victor Koontz, of Evansville, Ind. was represented by Byron A. Beery and Mrs. O. E. Bennett, of Mason City, Ill., was portrayed by Mrs. Robert James. Mrs. Anna Lou Chowning, who before her marriage was Anna Lou Cain sent greetings, which were read by Mrs. Vernon Bowers. Mrs. Chowning lives in Shelburn, Ind.

Nancy Eloise Bow, granddaughter of the honored guest, who was named for her, then sang the same solo that she sang at the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Beery, "Melody of Love".

Make Presentations

At the close of the presentation Mrs. Crise gave Mrs. Beery a scrapbook which she had prepared indicating the important events in her life. Pictures were taken throughout the program and a space was left in the book so that Mrs. Beery can place them there and have a complete resume of her association with the Christian Women's Fellowship and the First Christian Church. There were 50 members in attendance and all signed the book.

The Fellowship members presented Mrs. Beery with a necklace and earring set as a gift and then gave her a miniature globe bank, miniature car and car keys indicating their desire to present her with a "trip around the world".

The women then went to the church social rooms where refreshments were served buffet fashion from a table appointed in lace and silver. On the social committee were Mrs. Charles Llewellyn, Mrs. Chester Lear, Mrs. A. C. Barnes and Mrs. Ray Purks.

Vows were exchanged at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon before the Rev. Gregory Soroka, church pastor.

White crash lined the aisle by which the bridal party approached the altar, which was decorated with floral arrangements and white satin bows marked the family pews.

For her wedding attire the bride selected a floor length gown with a skirt styled of three layers of tulle with lace inserts accented with sequins. It was worn over a hoop and the Chantilly lace bodice was fitted, styled with a sequin trimmed V. neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the wrists. Heavy slipper satin was worn under the gown and the sheer bridal veil of illusion was held to a scalloped cap of sequins and pearls. For jewelry she wore pearl earrings, a gift of the bridegroom and she carried a lace fan as a background for her white orchid with white satin shower streamers and white velvet leaves. She was given in marriage by her father.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Sondra Smereczniak, was present wearing a blue dress with gold accessories and a pink carnation corsage. Also attending was Mrs. Lewis Nogy, aunt and godmother of the bride, who wore pink carnations with her blue and pink ensemble.

About 300 guests gathered at the Russian Hall in Pricedale for the reception held later in the day. Buffet refreshments were served at a table centered with a tiered wedding cake trimmed with pink roses, silver leaves and a miniature bridal couple. Music was provided by the Harmoneers.

Common Sense In Heart Cases!

BY

Dr. Frank F. Tucci

Much is being said today about heart disease. Heart trouble may be of various kinds and affects people of all ages in all walks of life. Contrary to popular thinking, the heart does not function independently of all other organs. When functioning normally, the heart has a specific job to do. It is able to beat fast; or slow; pump more blood; or less blood to meet the demands placed upon it by other organs and systems of the body.

This vital organ, small as it may be, is the great pump of the circulatory system. It is purely a muscular structure and by alternate contraction and relaxation, forces the blood to circulate throughout the entire body. Thus oxygen and nutrition is delivered to all tissues.

The heart is dependent upon the nervous system for function. For example, in the coordinating work of the brain, nerve impulses are utilized which are transmitted over the nerves via the spinal cord to the heart. The proper quantity and quality of nerve impulses from the brain to the heart results in normal function and action of the heart. Interference to this nerve action produces abnormal heart action.

Chiropractic premises that this nerve interference, due to spinal misalignment, is the basic cause of all heart disorders.

Is is not then just common sense to correct the cause in the cases of heart trouble?

Defends Rental Fee for MHS Gym

Monessen High athletic director Everett Pancook defends the $100 rental fee for the Greyhound gym in this manner: "Our experience in the WPIAL Tournament the past few seasons has been that expenses at the Pitt Field House amount to $600. We feel our gym is much nicer and certainly big enough to accommodate all tourney crowds, except the semi-finals and finals. In short, it seems to us that the WPIAL Basketball Committee would be better off promoting early round games at our floor or other spacious high school gyms. Not only would the expense be less, but the crowds would be bigger. Monessen fans, alone, would add greatly to the game turnouts."

The list of Class B entries in the Westmoreland County Basketball Tournament has dwindled to 11 this season from a high of 24 just a few years back . . . Tom Qualters, the Philadelphia bonus baby from McKeesport, has reported early to the Phils training site at Clearwater, Fla. Qualters posted a so-so record for Miami last season . . . The exhibitor list for this year's Pennsylvania Recreation and Sportsmen's show, to be held March 25-30, in Harrisburg, is already 60 per cent larger than that of the highly successful 1956 exposition.

Falenski Top Scorer in Sec. 10

Dick Falenski, Derry Twp. cager, was the top scorer in Section 10 this past season, averaging 22.8 points per game. Reginald Haten, of Rostraver finished eighth with a 15.2 average . . . The other day we mentioned the Hughes family and their basketball tradition. Somehow we overlooked Delbert, a well-known figure in both basketball and baseball circles hereabouts . . . Sharon High will go into the current WPIAL Basketball Tournament with 21 wins. However the key success was that 57-50 verdict over Farrell AT Farrell. That was the tip off that the Bengals won't crack under pressure. Farrell has lost only two of its last 100 games at home. The Steeler fans whoop and howl to really apply pressure to the visitors.

Charleroi sportscaster Frank Buscanics still hasn't given up in his efforts to steer brilliant Myron Pottios to Notre Dame. Says Frank: "Myron has agreed to visit Notre Dame before making a decision. That's all we've ever asked of him." . . . Speaking of Pottios, he's supposedly received some pretty nifty offers, including one promise of summer time employment . . . Uniontown High tackle Bob Myden has received an invitation to play in the annual East-West grid game sponsored by the Wigwam Wisemen of America. The contest will be played next August in Memphis, Tenn.

Lucy Faltz Teaches Bowling

Lucy Faltz, a member of the Monessen Fifth Avenue team, helps to teach bowling to no less than 300 youngsters every Saturday at her Jacktown Lanes. Mrs. Faltz operates the bowling establishment with her husband Bernard. Both are expert bowlers . . . In Beaver Valley, an East-West game is staged to formally wind up each basketball season. This year Bill Canterna of Ellwood City will pilot the West squad while Bill Edward of New Brighton will direct the East in a game scheduled for Beaver Falls, March 8 . . . The all-time Mon Valley scoring record in basketball was set back in 1947 when Charleroi's Fred Uhlman scored 45 points against Brownsville.

West Virginia Has Won the Close Games

Winning the close ones away from home has become the mark of West Virginia's basketball team which enters the Southern Conference tournament this weekend at Richmond with one of the school's best records in a glorious basketball history.

With a 22-4 record, the Mountaineers need two more victories to match the total scored by the 1946 team and, being now engaged in tournament competition, cannot lose more than five games.

Scratching out the close contests has made the difference. In no fewer than 11 road games in which the opposition has been either ahead or within a point of the Mountaineers during the second half, West Virginia has won nine. The latest was a 77-75 triumph Friday over an inspired George Washingtont eam which didn't have to contend with Rod Hundley.

Virus Infection

Hot Rod, who was abed with a virus infection, is expected to rejoin the team for the opening Southern Conference tournament game with either George Washington or Davidson, whichever wins a projected eighth-place playoff game Monday at Lexington, Va. The first-round game will take place Thursday at 4 p. m.

Coach Fred Schaus believes that experience has provided the telling factor in West Virginia's tight squeezes. "We have five boys who have played a lot of ball and felt the pressure of a close game for two or three seasons," says youthful Freddie who has imbued his teams with the same competitive spirit he showed as a championship player through 14 years of high school, service, college and professional play.

Schaus will be trying for his third conference championship coaching success in as many tries with West Virginia basketball teams that had never tasted the conference title. Now the team has won 18 straight conference games.

Class of Conference

Though it would appear that West Virginia is the class of the conference off its great record, actually it has been able to defeat six league rivals by an average of only seven points away from home. In these days of the bonus free-throw rule, that is indeed a slender margin.

If victorious in the first round the Mountaineers will play either host Richmond or high-scoring Furman in the semi-finals on Friday night.

Last year they won three games en route to the conference championship by a total of only 11 points.

It all adds up to the prospect that fans listening to Jack Fleming's broadcasts are due for more spine - tingling and shuddering moments as the Mighty Mountaineers attempt to return the championship once more. In West Virginia when the Mountaineers are playing, television doesn't stand a chance.

Tebbetts Insists on Windups

By UNITED PRESS

Manager Birdie Tebbetts of the Cincinnati Redlegs rejected the "Don Larsen no-windup fad" today when he set out to rewrite the Brooks Lawrence Story with Warren Hacker in the starring role.

Tebbetts' strategy is the direct opposite of Larsen's "perfect game tactics" which have caught on with so many other pitchers. Specifically, Birdie wants Hacker to elaborate on his normally moderate windup and perhaps produce something akin to the Bobo Newsom windmill delivery.

The fact that the 33-year old Hacker had a 3-13 record for the Chicago Cubs doesn't scare Tebbetts in the least. Only a year ago he took Lawrence, who had a 3-8 mark for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1955, and made him into a pitcher won his first 13 decisions and finished the campaign as a 19-game winner. And Tebbetts is certain he'll give Cincinnati its first National League pennant since 1941 if he gets similar results with Hacker.

Special Interest

The Milwaukee Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers were also taking special interest in a couple of pitchers attempting comebacks — Chet Nichols and Ralph Branca.

Nichols, the NLs earned run leader as a rookie, pitched one-hit ball for four innings in Sunday's intro-squad game and reported the sore shoulder which bothered him last season felt fine.

Branca, only 31 despite the fact he was a 21-game winner 'way back in 1947, pitched two scoreless innings in the Dodgers' first intra-camp game and won a promise from Manager Walt Alston that he'll be given "every opportunity" to make the team.

Other Fronts

On other fronts:

Roy Sievers agreed to terms estimated at $19,000 leaving catcher Clint Courtney as the Washington Senators' only holdout. Club President Calvin Griffith says Courtney "will sign for the same figure as last year or he can start travelling."

Catcher Sammy White and infielder Billy Klaus signed with the Boston Red Sox, who still must satisfy Jim Piersall and Gene Stephens. White started training right after he signed; Klaus reports today.

Pittsburgh in Intra-Squad Tilt

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates play their first intra-squad game today in preparation for Saturday's opening of the Grapefruit League season.

Manager Bobby Bragan said he has been pleased with the way everyone has been working.

"I haven't heard any complaints about too much work, which is good," he said.

The Pirates, who already have taken two Salk anti-polio shots, will be given their third and final shots next week.

Pie Traynor, the Hall of Fame third baseman, checked into the camp to work with the infielders the next two weeks. He will concentrate chiefly on Frank Thomas, who moved from the outfield to third base last season.

Valley Track Coaches Meet

The Mon Valley Track Coaches Association will meet tonight in Brownsville Junior High at 7:30 p. m. to make plans for the annual Big Six meet.

Brownsville is the defending meet champion.

The Brownies will play host to the 1957 show, the site of which is rotated each season.

Donora High has won five of six previous Big Six meets.

Officials are hoping for the biggest field in the history of the meet. Scheduled to enter teams are Brownsville, Charleroi, Donora, Monessen, Monongahela and Redstone.

Sugar Hart Hottest Boxer Since Robinson

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Listen to the fight mob and they'll tell you that Garnett (Sugar) Hart, a Philadelphia welterweight with Elvis Presley sideburns, is the hottest fistic item since Sugar Ray Robinson.

Hart is the moustachioed slugger you'll gander on television Friday night when he meets Walt Byars, another 21-year-old from Boston, in the 10-round feature from Madison Square Garden.

The word is that Hart, a rock 'n roll record collector, will rock and that Byars will roll.

New Faces Needed

One thing is certain, boxing can use some good new faces, particularly the kind which don't cut too easily or get flattened out too quickly. Too often the "new Robinsons" or the "new Billy Petrellos" become shopworn before the cellophane is off their hopes.

But Hart looks to most of the experts as if he's a cinch to make the big grade.

Fast and graceful in the Robinson manner, and with a similar wasp-waisted "built," the five-foot 11-inch pulverizer has won 19 of his 20 professional bouts—17 of them by knockouts and the last seven in a row by drawing the curtains on his opponent.

Once known as "Skinny" to his schoolmates, Hart got into boxing —Are you listening, Maxie? — because of girls. It seems that a gymnasium opened in his neighborhood and the local lassies would line up adoringly at the plate glass window in the front to watch the local heroes train.

Well, Hart wanted the gals to look at him, too.

So he became an amateur and, in between times when he was posing in the plate glass window, won the National AAU lightweight and welterweight titles.

Ready To Fight Anyone

"He's ready right now to fight any welterweight in the world, including Carmen Basilio," lauded Teddy Brenner, the St. Nick's matchmaker, after Hart bombed out former contender Hector Constance, whose victims include Kid Gavilan and Tiger Jones.

"Maybe he's ready," admitted Manager Marty Stein cautiously, "but we'd rather bring him along as slowly as possible."

"I'm only 21 and I'm in no hurry," publicly says Hart, who privately thinks he can whip any welterweight extant. "Maybe by fall."

U. S. Still Tops In Ice Skaters

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UP) —The United States remains dominant in figure skating competition today on the performances of two youngsters unequaled in the world of amateurs.

David Jenkins, 20, kept the men's world figure skating championship in the United States Saturday night with his flawless display before 3,000 in the Broadmoore Ice Palace. His brother, Hayes Alan Jenkins, won the championship from 1953 through 1956, but did not compete last last week.

Carol Heiss, 17-year-old skater from Ozone Park, N. Y., had retained her women's world crown earlier in the week. She won it in 1956, succeeding Tenley Albright, who was world champion in 1953 and 1955.

St. Mary in Bowling Win

St. Mary blanked St. Monica and St. Theresa took a pair from St. Anne in St. Cajetan Ladies League bowling last night.

Top scorers were Betty Mandarino, 90-212; Virginia Oliver, 129-326; Pat DiGioia, 129-320; Lillian DeMarino, 146-383.

Standings show St. Ann, 20-10; St. Theresa, 15-15; St. Mary, 15-15; St. Monica, 8-22.

Yank to Marry Czech Athlete

LONDON (UP)— Harold Connolly, America's Olympic hammer throwing champion, hopes to marry Olga Figotova, Czechoslovakia's Olympic women's discus throwing champion, and settle down in Boston.

That's what Connolly, a Boston schoolteacher, told the United Press Sunday in a telephone interview from his hotel in Prague. He is in Czechoslovakia on an official invitation from the State Athletic Federation.

The Constitutional Congress consisted of about 55 members, sitting in Philadelphia. All states except Rhode Island responded to the call.

City League Starts to Compete in Tournament

Will Make Debut Tomorrow in Annual Cage Show at Monongahela

An all-star team representing the Monessen City League will take part in the second annual Monongahela Booster Club Basketball tournament beginning tomorrow.

Other quints in the tourney represent City Leagues in Charleroi, Donora and Monongahela.

The opening night winners will meet on Thursday for the 1957 title. All games are scheduled for the Monongahela High floor.

Monessen's first tourney foe will be Charleroi at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow. The nightcap attraction will pair defending champion Donora against Monongahela.

Once again Bucky Lutes, veteran Viaduct coach, will pilot the Monessen team.

All-Star Choices

Lutes has selected these ten players as All-Stars:

Paul Kunsa, 6-2, Sam Dominico, 6-2; and Tony Crisi, 6-1, all of the Cro-Ams; Mike Young, 6-2, and Dick DiCenzio, 5-8, both of Viaduct; Jim Bricker, 5-8, and John Trembush, 6-2, both of Fuocos; Leroy Stover, 6-4, of Big Five; Gene Hall, 6-3, of Sugar Loaf, and Ed Sanc, 6-0, of the Ozarks.

Alternates will be Ed Lattu, of the Yellow Jackets; William Bronson of Big Five, and Tom Kovach of Sugar Loaf.

All of the above players are requested to contact Lutes today between 5 and 6 p. m. at MU4-6830 to inform him if they will be available.

Big Prizes

The Monongahela tourney is novel in a couple of respects. Most important all teams wind up with prizes. Even the fourth place club gets something for its trouble.

The winning quint earns a lucrative prize, depending on the tourney gate. So there isn't much trouble persuading City League stars to take part in the show.

Cat Gridders Collect for Kadis

Monongahela High football players donned uniforms last Saturday despite the season to parade through the city streets.

The gridders were collecting for Richard Kadis, the injured Geneva College football player whose medical expenses are rapidly nearing $20,000.

The result was $340 more for the fund. That figure boosts total collections in Monongahela to more than $500.

Delany Easily Wins 'Double' In Track Meet

NEW YORK (UP)— Ron Delany made it look easy in the EC4A championships, but there'll be no attempt to make it two "doubles" in a row next Saturday when the 38th annual Knights of Columbus meet ends the Madison Square Garden indoor track and field season.

"I'd give a flat 'no' if asked whether Delany could try for another double," said Villanova Coach Jumbo Elliott when advised of speculation that the Irish star might be induced to run in both the K of C 1,000 yard test and the Columbian Mile. "I don't want to work him hard like that week after week."

Delany finally won applause from the time-conscious gallery gods Saturday night when he swept to his victories in the EC4A 1,000 yard and the two-mile, thus ensuring Villanova's first IC4A team victory. Delany won as he pleased in 2:14 in the 1,000, but made up 30 yards on the last lap to take the two-mile in the meet record time of 9:06.6.

Villanova wound up out-scoring perrenial IC4A champion Manhattan for the team title, 46 to 22 1-3, with six "firsts."

Following Villanova and Manhattan in the point standings were Penn State, 12 11-18ths; Maryland, 11 1-9; Cornell, 11; NYU, 9; Army, 6 1-9; LaSalle, 6; Penn, 5 31-36ths; Pittsburgh, 5 2-9; Dartmouth, Duke, Georgetown, Princeton, St. John's and Syracuse, 5 each; Connecticut, and Harvard, 4 each; and Adelphi, Fordham, Holy Cross, Marquette, Yale, St. Joseph's and Boston University, 2 each.

Red Wings Hurl Charges at Hockey Official

By UNITED PRESS

The Detroit Red Wings charged today that Referee Frank Udvari's "lack of guts" forced them to beat goalie Lorne Worsley twice in order to gain credit for the one goal they needed to tie the New York Rangers.

Both Manager Jack Adams and Coach Jim Skinner threatened to report the official to National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell and insisted "he could have committed a $100,000 blunder."

The Red Wings tied the Rangers 1-1, when Gordie Howe scored at 5:52 of the third period of Sunday night's game in New York, but the Detroit officials claimed the Red Wings actually scored seconds earlier on a shot by Ted Lindsay. The Wings said the shot went in and out of the New York cage, but Udvari refused to allow the claim after conferring with the goal judge.

Brickner Draws Swim Fans in Connellsville

Gus Brickner, of Charleroi, drew a large crowd yesterday as he paddled for eight minutes in the Youghiogeny River at Connellsville.

The exhibition was one of a series planned by Gus to draw attention to his attempt at the English Channel later in the year. Gus is hoping that area fans will join in backing that life-long ambition.

Mayor Abe I. Daniels was included in the turnout to cheer Gus in the chilly waters. The air temperature was a nippy 33 degrees.

On Saturday, Gus spent several minutes in the Monongahela near Charleroi.

A special fund has been opened in behalf of Brickner at the First National Bank in Charleroi. All contributions should be mailed there.

In the event Brickner is unable to make the trip to Europe, all money will be returned, according to Gus' manager, newsman Bill Richards.

Three Way Tie In Center's Loop

Elks blanked No. 3 Maintenance and Italian Hall swept over Aquarium in Center's City League bowling Saturday night.

In another match, the Cro-Ams won a pair from the Turners.

As a result, a three-way tie now exists for the league lead. Turners, Elks and Italian Hall all have 18-9 records.

Trailing in the standings are the Cro-Ams, 13-14 No. 3 Maintenance, 12-15; and Aquarium, 2-25.

Saturday's scoring leaders were Junior Koslosky, 225-513; Joe Salay, 220-522; Bill Valko, 231-564; Steve Salay, 212-590; John Galvan, 192-506, Tony Strauss, 203-534.

New Amsterdam, now New York City, established the first night school in the United States in 1661.

Tigers, Cubs In Twin Wins

Tigers won two games from the Bears and Cubs took two from the Giants in BMJR bowling last Friday.

Setting the scoring pace were Stanley Zyski, 198-478; Ray Calderone, 169-466; Andy Dyky, 183-458; and Steve Swansick, 159-443.

Standings show Tigers, 16-8; Cubs, 13-11; Bears, 10-14; and Giants, 9-15.

West Newton Raps Perry to Advance

Slow-starting West Newton eventually romped to a 76-58 victory over Perryopolis on Saturday to earn the Section 17 title.

The Golden Hornets, coached by the venerable S. Townsend, will meet Aspinwall next on Friday at the McKeesport Vocational gym in a quarter-final test of the WPIAL's Class B Tournament.

The Hornets got off in low gear against Perry on Saturday, but once they picked up steam there was no stopping them.

With 1:16 to go in the initial stanza, the West Newton boys trailed, 16-8. And with three minutes gone in the second period they were still lagging, 26-18. At that point, the complexion of the game suddenly changed.

Fast Break Attack

With Bud Morrison and Gene Letterio spearheading a fast-break attack, the Hornets stormed to a 26-26 tie. By intermission, they had raced off to a 42-30 advantage. In the spree, they scored 22 points in less than five minutes.

In the third quarter, West Newton hit another "dead spot" and the Commodores closed in to within four points at 52-48.

However the poised West Newton lads had too much in the home-stretch and they won going away.

Morris led the winners with 27 points. However he gots lots of help from Barry McCoy, who tallied 20.

Ray Johnston and Letterio also hit double figure for the victors, scoring 14 and 10 points respectively.

Steve Stolarik was high for the Commodores with 20 points.

Providence Still Leads in Tight Hockey Chase

By UNITED PRESS

By the grace of a sudden-death overtime goal, the Providence Reds clung to a slender one-point first place lead in the American Hockey League today.

Deadlocked 3-3 Sunday night in overume with the Cleveland Barons, Providence got the news that the Rochester Americans had reeled off their eighth consecutive victory. The news set the stage for a "must" Providence win—a defeat and the Reds would have to relinquish first place.

At 1:00 of the sudden-death stanza, Jim Bartlett beat Cleveland's Marcel Paille, crediting Providence with a 4-3 win and insuring the Reds first place. Gordon Vejprava, who racked up two goals, starred for Cleveland.

Rochester's 3-2 win over Hershey enabled it to sustain a drive which has taken it out of the AHL cellar to within a point of first.

In a game between the two last place teams, Gerry Ehman's hat trick wasn't enough as Springfield bowed 8-6 to Buffalo.

Wants All Pro Sports Probed

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. William E. Miller (R-NY), calling for a complete congressional investigation of all pro sports, has started by asking for the National Football League's official stand on three item —the player draft, a players' association and a guaranteed yearly salary.

Miller, a member of the House Anti-Trust subcommittee, said he has written a letter to NFL Commissioner Bert Bell regarding these matters although "I don't for a minute...believe that there is anything dishonest or criminal in the present operation of pro football."

In Philadelphia, Bell declined to comment on Miller's remarks until he has received the letter and studied it.

The Indians used to buy colonial muskets by stacking up pelts until they equalled the lenth of the barrel. The longer the gun, the more pelts it was worth.

Erie Wins in Disputed Game

ERIE, Pa. (UP)— Erie Cathedral Prep and St. Marys Central Catholic played a basketball game here Sunday — of sorts.

Erie officials put so many restrictions on St. Marys the school was lucky to be able to field a team.

In their desire to prevent a recurrence of a near-riot which erupted when the teams played at St. Marys on Jan. 6, the officials banned all St. Marys fans, both students and adults, and limited the team to 11 players, two coaches, the principal and official scorekeeper.

Cheerleaders were allowed provided they did not sit down.

Cathedral rolled to an 80-45 victory. The demoralized Crusaders all but threw away the ball in the second half.

St. Marys won the Jan. 6 game, 55-51.

Suggs, Hagge In Final Round

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)—Louise Suggs matched her steady golf game against the putting mastery of Marlene Bauer Hagge today in the final round of the $5,000 Jacksonville Women's Open tournament.

Miss Suggs, of Sea Island, Ga., and Mrs. Hagge, of Delray Beach, Fla., teed off for the final 18 holes over the tricky Hyde Park course tied for the lead and two strokes ahead of their nearest rivals. Both had 54-hole totals of 222.

Gil Turner in Bout Tonight

NEW YORK (UP)—Gil Turner, seasoned Philadelphia middleweight, is favored at 11-5 to beat Rudy Gwin of Cleveland at St Nicholas Arena tonight because of Rudy's meagre professional experience.

Their 10-rounder will be televised by DuMont at 10:30 p.m. EST.

Although only 26, Turner is a veteran of 66 pro fights. His opponents included top welterweights and middleweights. Gwin will be 25 on March 17; but tonight's bout is only his 12th pro start, his first 10-rounder and his first New York main event.

Gwin remained long in the amateurs, where he won 84 of 87 bouts and attained prominence as a Golden Glover, Olympic performer and All-Navy champ. In his 11 professional starts, he registered seven wins, two losses, one draw and one no-contest. He had but one kayo. However, his two defeats were on TKO's.

Turner's 51-14-1 record includes 34 kayoes. He was stopped four times. However, he lost four of his last six bouts.

North Carolina Quint Faces Test Thursday

NEW YORK (UP)—North Carolina, unbeaten in 24 regular season games, topped the United Press college basketball ratings today for the seventh straight week, but the make-or-break test for the Tar Heels comes up this week.

Coach Frank McGuire's men stake their perfect record, a berth in the NCAA tournament and their claim to the 1957 national championship in the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney which starts Thursday.

If the Tar Heels falter, Kansas (19-2), Kentucky (22-4) and Southern Methodist (21-3) will make their own claims for the national crown. These three teams trailed North Carolina in that order today for the sixth consecutive week.

In their next-to-last ballot of the season, 26 of the 35 leading coaches who comprise the United Press Rating Board picked North Carolina tops and gave them a score of 341 points — just nine short of perfect.

Runnerup Kansas attracted seven first-place votes, while third-ranked Kentucky and ninth-ranked Louisville each had one.

UCLA (21-4) and Seattle (22-2) remained fifth and sixth in that order, keeping the top six teams exactly the same as last week Michigan State, the Big Ten leader, was this week's only newcomer in the top 10, jumping three notches to eighth place.

California advanced two places to No. 7, Louisville moved up one to No. 9 and Bradley dropped from eighth to 10th place.

St. Louis headed the second 10 group, followed by a three-team tie for 12th among Dayton, West Virgina and Indiana. Brigham Young and Vanderbilt were tied for 15th place; Notre Dame and Kansas State shared 17th place, with Iowa State 19th and Ohio State 20th.

College Cage Crowns Will Be Decided During 'Windup Week'

By JOHN GRIFFIN

It's "happy daze" for college basketball fans this week with the wild wind-up of the regular court season and the hectic start of post-season tournament time.

Eight major conference championships are on the line, starting tonight with the Big Ten crown that Michigan State can clinch by walloping old rival Michigan. The National Invitation Tournament may add its 10th team today, and the NCAA tourney now has filled 14 of its 23 berths.

The NCAA's brand-new "small college" tournament blazes into full-scale action Tuesday night with 15 first-round games, all at different sites.

Utah To NIT?

Michigan State and Brigham Young clinched NCAA berths Saturday, State by gaining at least a tie for the Big Ten crown and Brigham Young by nailing down the Skyline Conference title. That's expected to mean that Utah, Skyline runner-up, will receive a bid to the NIT.

NIT Chairman Walter McLaughlin admitted the Madison Square Garden carnival, which opens March 16, is "very much interested" in Utah. Indications are the other two berths will go to: The winner of tonight's Duquesne-Temple game in Pittsburgh, and the runner-up in the Missouri Valley Conference, which isn't decided yet.

Only action in the "small college" tourney tonight finds City College of New York at Mt. St. Mary's of Maryland.

The NAIA small-college tournament, which opens at Kansas City, Mo., March 11, today announced six of its 32 teams—West Virginia Tech, Southeastern Oklahoma, Louisiana College of Pineville, Troy (Ala), State, Stetson (Fla), and New Haven (Conn) St.

The titles and tourney talk stole the spotlight from the major-college scoring race, this weekend, but that remains as hot and wide-open as ever.

Grady Wallace of South Carolina ended the regular season with 44 points in a 113-85 rout of Clemson Saturday, pushing his average to 31.0. He now goes into the ACC tourney, but runner-up Joe Gibbon of Mississippi (30.05) is finished and can only hope Wallace slips.

Kansas Clinches Tie

Third-place Elgin Baylor of Seattle (30.0) has NIT play remaining; fourth-place Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas (29.29) has two regular games, then probably tournament play; and fifth-place Chet Forte of Columbia (28.64) has two regular games left.

The victories by Michigan State and Brigham Young were pressed for top Saturday night honors by those of Kansas and St. Louis Kansas clinched at least a tie for the Big Seven crown by rallying to beat Colorado, 68-57, as Chamberlain scored 31 points, and St. Louis clinched at least a tie for the Missouri Valley title by routing Houston, 102-84, as Joe Todd scored 27.

California regained the Pacific Coast Conference lead with a 73-68 win over UCLA, avenging a Friday night loss; Yale clung to first place in the Ivy League with a 75-67 win over Harvard as Ed Robinson scored 25; third-ranked Kentucky whipped Tennessee, 93-75; and fourth-ranked SMU crushed Arkansas, 87-59, as Jim Krebs scored 27.

Boston Clinches Eastern Division Title of NBA

By UNITED PRESS

After 11 frustrating years, the Eastern Division championship of the National Basketball Association today belongs to the Boston Celtics.

Boston blasted Rochester, 111-102, Sunday to cop its first division title in 11 years. Ex-All-American Bill Russell was the standout performer for the Celts, garnering 30 points and 24 rebounds.

Other games saw the Syracuse Nats, led by Dolph Schayes' record-breaking 47 points, down Philadelphia 112-86, to deadlock the Warriors for second place.

The St. Louis Hawks revived dormant title hopes, defeating first-place Fort Wayne, 112-102, to move within a game and one-half of the Pistons.

A 71-point second half splurge gave the Minneapolis Lakers a 119-108 win over the New York Knickerbockers as Dick Garmaker scored 29.

Dukes, Temple Clash for NIT

By UNITED PRESS

Duquesne of Pittsburgh and Temple of Philadelphia place their chances for a post-season tournament bid on the line when they meet tonight at the Pitt Field House.

Both the Dukes (15-7) and the Owls (18-6) are hopeful of a bid to the National Invitational Tournament Tonight's result could be the clincher.

The Owls defeated Duquesne, 64-60, at Philadelphia earlier this season

The Dukes defeated St. Francis, 90-81, at Johnstown Saturday night and worked out Sunday afternoon in preparation for the return encounter with the Owls.

Meanwhile, the Pitt Panthers still waited hopefully for a bid to the NCAA tournament. The Panthers ended their season Saturday night with a convincing 80-65 victory over Penn State at University Park. Pitt's record is 15-9.

Five Killed In Crash of Alaskan Plane

SEATTLE (UP)—The bodies of five persons killed in the crash of an Alaska Airlines DC4 Saturday night were brought out from rugged Olympic Peninsula foothills Sunday.

The plane crashed only 18 minutes before it was scheduled to land at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport A Coast Guard helicopter found the wreckage early Sunday, about 50 airline miles northwest of here.

The plane last was heard from Saturday when pilot Larry Currie of Seattle, flying in "reasonably clear" weather, radioed he was over Dungeness, Wash, a standard check point for inbound Alaska flights. He gave no indication of trouble. The plane crashed minutes later

The other victims were identified as co-pilot Lyle Edwards, Seattle; Stewardess Elizabeth Goods, Robin, Man.; and passengers Leroy Kelly and Constance Reppert, Fairbanks, Alaska.

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A man and a woman died Sunday in a fire which destroyed a frame home in the city's Soho district.

President of Division Quits

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Victor D Kniss announced his resignation Sunday as president of Westinghouse Electric Supply, wholesale division of Westinghouse Electric Corp.

He had been with Firestone Tire and Rubber Company for nearly 20 years before joining Westinghouse in 1952.

Mystery Deepens in Death of Child

BELLMAWR, N.J. (UP)— The apparent starvation death of four-year-old Mary Jane Barker whose body was found Sunday in the closet of an unfinished house caused conflicting theories among authorities today about her disappearance.

A playmate found Mary Jane's fully clothed body, huddled alongside a puppy, six days after she disappeared from her home, less than two blocks away.

An autopsy showed that the blonde, blue-eyed girl had not eaten since leaving her home to go out to play last Monday. She was last seen several hours later playing with the puppy, which belonged to six-year-old Mary Freitta, who found the body while visiting the new house with an aunt and uncle, the owners.

No Marks Of Violence

Camden County Coroner Robert J. Blake said there were no marks of violence on Mary Jane's body, nor any indication of sexual molestation.

A spokesman for the coroner's office expressed the opinion that the child had wandered into the closet, become trapped, and then died of fright and starvation.

But Police Chief Edward Garrity stressed that his men had searched the house at least three times since the child's disappearance. Garrity said he was "almost positive" that searchers had checked the closet.

The police chief said indications were Mary Jane had only recently been placed in the closet.

Although the door was unlocked, police said it had only a thumb screw inside, making it difficult to open — especially for a child.

Puppy Still Alive

Suffocation also was advanced as a possible cause of death, but a physician attending the autopsy said he believed Mary Jane died from a lack of food.

The puppy, which appeared in good condition, was to be examined today to determine when it had last eaten. Neither searchers nor workmen had reported hearing any barking or whining while in the house last week, police said.

Discovery of the child's body climaxed an intensive week-long search by police and volunteers who had combed this South Jersey town.

Seven Killed in State Highway Accidents

By UNITED PRESS

Seven persons were killed on Pennsylvania highways during the week end — four in the western end of the state and three in eastern sections.

The most spectacular accident occurred on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Nazareth, Northampton County, where nine cars were involved. A 12-year-old Fountain Hill boy was killed in the pile-up and three persons were injured.

Most highways were clear and dry but in some sections a light snow made roadways slippery in spots.

Donegal: Richard A. Lionette, 26, Everett, Mass., was killed Saturday in a three-vehicle accident on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near here. State police said his car struck a tractor - trailer while passing the vehicle and then crossed the medial strip and crashed into an oncoming auto. Occupants of the truck and other car were not injured.

Nazareth: Michael Haney Jr., 12, Fountain Hill, Pa., was killed in a nine-car pileup on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near this Northampton County community Friday night. Three other persons were injured.

Pittsburgh: Donald Yagesh, 6, Shaler Twp., was injured fatally Saturday when struck by an auto near his home. Police identified the driver of the car as Charles E. Rambler Jr., 28, of nearby West View.

Greensburg: James Lynch, 51, a caretaker at St. Xavier's School near Latrobe, was killed Sunday by an automobile on Route 30, seven miles east of here. State police said a car driven by Harrison Lee Stotler, 18, Delmont, Westmoreland County, struck Lynch while passing another car on the two-lane highway.

Collegeville: Pearl Badman, 19, Collegeville, was killed Sunday when a car in which she was riding sideswiped another auto and crashed into a tree here. Two other persons were injured.

Pottstown: Raymond M Wilkinson, 44, Pottstown, was killed Sunday when his auto struck a tree near his home. Police were puzzled over the fact he had $1,400 on his person.

Pittsburgh: Melvin Pettigrew Jr., 7, was killed by an automobile near his home in the Hill District Sunday night. Police said the car was operated by Elizabeth Calhoun, 30, Pittsburgh.

Youngwood Burglary

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP)—Burglars broke into the White Way Inn at Youngwood, four miles south of here, Sunday and hauled away eight cases of beer and a safe containing $1,500.

Mardi Gras Climax Tomorrow

NEW ORLEANS (UP)—The parade of King Rex, traditionally a gay procession, will tell of Biblical man's fight against sin and evil in Tuesday's Mardi Gras climax.

Regally robed Rex will lead 20 elaborate floats through New Orleans streets as the city and thousands of visitors bid farewell to the 1957 carnival and greet Ash Wednesday, which begins the Lenten season.

Celebrations began a week ago with nightly torch light parades and masked carnival balls.

Competing with Rex' parade will be an all-Negro procession led by King Zulu.

Leading Negro integrationists in New Orleans have tried to dignify the parade, which as late as 1949, when jassman Louis Armstrong led the Negro revelers in songs and dances, resembled a native African ceremony.

The United Clubs Inc., a Negro civic and social organization, urged Negroes to boycott balls and to shun parades if they degraded the Negro race.

The outcome of the dignity drive will not be known until Ash Wednesday.

In past parades, Zulu has toasted his queen at bars and funeral homes along Canal, Rampart and Basin streets.

Climaxing formal celebrations of Mardi Gras will be the parade of Comus, God of Mirth, who will lead a night parade Tuesday. Comus and Rex join forces shortly before midnight in Municipal Auditorium for a grand ball.
